(三)閱讀與理解

One of the most successful singers of the twentieth century, Ella Fitzgerald, has made several different styles of her own. Though born in Virginia, she was brought up in an orphanage in Yonkers, New York. Chick Webb spotted her in a competition when she was sixteen. He invited her to sing with his band, and when he died in 1939, she took over.

Unlike Bessie Smith, Ella taught herself the music of tender feelings that was so popular in the 1930's. During the 1940's she developed her own "scat singing", in which you often meet with breathless, meaningless syllables, for songs like "flying Home" and "Lady Be good".

Ella has said, "I just like music. To me, it is a story. There's only one thing better than singing - it is more singing."

36. Where did Ella spend most of her childhood?
A) In Virginia B) In Yonkers C) In New York City
D) I don't know, because the passage doesn't give
